Advertiſement.

WHEREAS divers Gentlemen have, for near two Years paſt, deſired the Author hereof to exhibite as below mentioned, and offered to become Pupils; it is reſolved ſpeedily to begin a regular and ſolid Courſe of Chymiſtry, not to amuſe, but to teach Apothecaries, Druggiſts, or others, the right Ways of preparing true and genuine Medicines; by which they will be able to prepare ſuch for themſelves, or to turn the Knowledge to direct Buſineſs, and that without the Charge or Servitude of Apprenticeſhip.

In this Courſe all neceſſary Cautions and Inſtructions will be given, and the Medicines prepared as now done by the Author's Brother, for both the Royal Families at London; and during which will be ſhewn the Ways to diſcover whether divers Medicines are ſophiſticated or not.

Alſo will be ſhewn Specimens of Drugs, procured from his Majeſty's Druggiſt, whereby to come at a Knowledge of true Drugs.

At the End of this Courſe, will be ſhewn the Pupils, a Collection of uncommon natural Rarities, collected in divers Parts of the World, 131 in number, and to view which, each Pupil to have Tickets to admit two Gentlemen or Ladies.

Likewiſe the Courſe of curious Experiments will be performed with the extenſive Lectures, as exhibited at the Univerſities of Oxford and Cambridge, which are amuſing or pleaſing to thoſe no ways ſkilled in Chymiſtry, and inſtructive to thoſe that are, to which alſo, each Pupil brings two Friends.

The Proceſſes that will be gone through, or the Medicines to be prepared, are to be ſeen at the Performers.

The Receipts of each Preparations to be fixed up in Writing, for taking Notes each Day.

The Courſe to continue about ſix Weeks, four Hours a Day, viz. from twelve to two, and from five to ſeven in the Evening, or according to the option of the Gentlemen. It is propoſed to admit about fifteen Pupils, at three Guineas a piece, and further may be known of the Ehibiter,

B. GODFREY, M. D.
Profeſſor of CHYMISTRY,

At his Lodgings over-againſt the Walſh's Head in Smock-Alley, Dublin, between eleven and one o'Clock at Noon: Thoſe Gentlemen who reſolve to attend this Courſe, are deſired to apply ſoon.

DSC

MSS
A 088100
Adams